Strong winter, staff help Mt. Abram turn corner

Now new owners have time to plan for the future

By REBECCA ZICARELLI

The snow on the trails at Mount Abram Ski Resort is slowly melting; the lifts are still; the lodges empty. There is a calm at the resort, a calm that is a blessing for new owners Josh and Susan Burns, who now have time to reflect on the past season and to plan for the future.

"It was great," Susan said. "It was exciting, rewarding, and fun. We had such a great team, people were so supportive, and the weather was great. We're excited for next year. We're excited to have time to plan for next year."

A successful first season

Despite having only a few weeks to prepare after buying the skiway at a foreclosure auction last November, the couple was able to open the mountain in time for Christmas.

With bountiful snow cover and a dedicated base of skiers, the mountain drew close to 40,000 skier visits during the 70-plus days it was open.

According to Josh Burns, that's 10,000 visits more than the preceding year.

Burns said he is proud of the accomplishments at the resort last winter.

First, they were able to open.

All the key positions at the mountain were staffed, with the exception of a bookkeeper/office manager. Burns is still trying to fill this job. "It would be really nice to have somebody to focus on that end of the business," he said.

A lot of effort went into establishing the Westside as a focus of the resort. Burns said the Westside, with its gentle terrain, is an ideal teaching site. He hopes to use that terrain and the resort's family-friendly image to lure new skiers to the sport.

Another major accomplishment was opening a daycare in the Westside Lodge. They constructed

Town responds to request for tax abatement

By MICHAEL DANIELS

A specialized appraiser hired by the town of Greenwood is expected to tell the town in two or three weeks what value she would put on the personal business property at Mt. Abram Ski Area.

The appraiser, Gail Gantick of G&K Associates in Manchester, Conn., was called in in response from a tax-abatement request from Mt. Abram owner Josh Burns.

The town currently values the personal property at the Locke Mills ski area at $655,940. Burns has argued the valuation should be $401,540, less than two-thirds the town's figure, according to Town Manager Carol Whitman.

If the selectmen agree to accept the lower figure, Mt. Abram's tax bill — last year: $22,852 — would drop by approximately $4,000, Whitman said.

Gantick inspected the ski resort's equipment Monday, and held a preliminary meeting with the town selectmen that evening.

She said it was "too soon to tell" what valuation she would put on the equipment. "I need to go back and sit down and put it all together."

Gantick, who is the owner of G&K Associates, said she had extensive experience appraising small ski areas, but her firm also performs municipal appraisals, including for Bangor.

She said that Mt. Abram staff members Larry Todd and Brian Dunham had provided her with access to all of the area's equipment.

"And they did a lot of homework themselves," she said, "calling people who buy, sell and maintain this kind of equipment."

She said the appraisal will be based not on the equipment's replacement cost, but on its "fair market value, in place, not on a truck."

Mt. Abram's overall valuation, including real estate and personal property, is currently $1,386,174.

The total valuation for the town of Greenwood last year was just over $61 million. The town's tax commitment for the year was just over $1 million.

Pathway bridge will be covered

By ALISON ALOISIO

Artists' Bridge of Newry is coming to Bethel — again.

A replica of the old covered bridge is the centerpiece of the BIG Adventure center's miniature golf course. And within two months, another replica is going up next to the Parkway.

The new bridge will be part of the Pathways Project. A half-mile recreation path will be built this spring along the Androscoggin River near the Parkway. The bridge would be used by walkers, cyclists and snowmobilers. The original plan called for a

Virus suspected in Gould food poisoning

About 80 staff members and students became ill at Gould Academy last week from what appears to be a food-borne illness, according to an epidemiologist at the Maine Bureau of Health.

Those affected had symptoms of vomiting, cramps and diarrhea, said Geoff Beckett, chief of the infectious disease epidemiology section of MBH. "It was of relatively short duration, and there were no hospitalizations," he said.

Beckett said his office was contacted first by a visitor to the school who ate lunch and then became ill. Gould contacted the state shortly thereafter, he said.

Health inspectors visited Gould Thursday to conduct a general inspection of the dining hall and kitchen, and the facility passed, Beckett said.

The school and its infirmary are working with the state to try to track down the cause of the illnesses. Cultures taken so far show no indication of a bacterial infection, said Beckett.

Following the incident, the dining hall passed state inspection.

Clinical evidence suggests a viral gastroenteritis infection, he said, which is much less serious than bacterial diseases.

"Our primary concern is ruling out bacterial infection, which has graver implications," Beckett said, and it appears that has been done.

Cultures have also been sent to the Center for Disease Control, he said. The symptoms are like those of a "Norwalk-like virus," which is the most common cause of such outbreaks. It is also common in family illnesses, he said. But it could be several weeks before the cause is clearly determined, said Beckett.

Beckett's office is working with the school to prevent secondary infection by encouraging hand-washing. Headmaster Bill Clough said the school is following through on that, urging students to wash up and working with dish crews on procedures. The effort is apparently paying off. "There have been no new cases reported," Clough said Tuesday.

"Wash your hands" is good advice for everyone, Beckett said. "It's an important reason to wash hands after using the bathroom. It really does help in prevention," he said.

and AMY CHAPMAN

Steering a course for the future, Gould Academy broke ground Saturday for the McLaughlin Science Center.

A crowd of alumni, parents, and friends joined students, faculty, and trustees for the 11 a.m. ceremony. It was moderated by Headmaster Bill Clough, and included remarks by principal donor and former trustee Glen McLaughlin; board president Alan Ordway; and Dan Kunkle, who is scheduled to take the reins as headmaster for the next school year.

Gould took a nontraditional approach in the actual groundbreaking ceremony — instead of turning over the earth with a spade, Clough drove a team of steers pulling a plow.

The new science building will be constructed on the former site of the Bethel Grammar School. William Bingham II bought that property in the 1950s and donated it to Gould.

The science center building will be approximately 20,000 square feet in size, a two-story brick building housing six major laboratories (including a networking and media lab), three prep rooms, a science

OFFICER SAVED MY LIFE

To the Editor:

On April 15, at approximately 3:30 p.m., I found myself in dire need of medical assistance for what turned out to be congestive heart failure — I could not breathe.

Had Officer Dean Benson, Bethel 3, not responded in an expedient and professional manner, I would probably not be here to write this letter. He was able to get to my home before the Rescue Service and begin oxygen and quite simply keep me alive until the rescue personnel could arrive. Officer Benson stepped through my door, sized up the situation, took control, and I feel that his response saved my life.

We all know that people are quick to complain when they think somebody did or didn't do what they should have, and that police officers and rescue personnel are scrutinized and held to unreasonable expectations often. I'm writing because somebody did well, and I'm here to tell about it.

We are fortunate to have the Police Department and the Rescue Service that we have here in the town of Bethel. We take them for granted, until the day comes that the call for them is to our home. I just want to take this opportunity to express my gratitude.

INVOLVING PUPILS IN POOL PROJECT

To the Editor:

Last August our seventh-grade's instructional team discovered the town of Bethel's developing response to the Angevine family's gift of a plot of land to its citizenry. With the intention of creating a swimming hole open to the town's families and children, a town committee already pursued a plan of development.

The swimming-hole project gave us the chance to involve our pupils in an ongoing, real-life project. We could get them out of the classroom and into the community learning the ins and outs of the project and becoming "experts" themselves in the planning phase of the project.

We developed a month-long series of encounters with various aspects of this project. We formed design teams of pupils and assigned them roles: soil experts, water experts, designers, mappers and coordinators. We established a separate group of regulators who would inspect developing plans according to their level of understanding of the regulations governing the creation of such projects. The pupils met with town managers and with Rebecca Zicarelli, who provided them with big picture views of the project. We did a general site inspection and met with the area's plumbing inspector.

With this general background, we next sent the designers from each team to Gorham, N.H., to see an operating site. The rest of each team went to the site again, this time to meet with their real-life counterparts in the areas of soil and water conservation and surveying.

We went across the street to talk to an abutting landowner for whom the prospect of this field's development into a swimming hole presented aesthetic problems. They inspected a dug pond that had broken into a silt layer and become clouded with suspended particles. They went back and talked again to the soil and water people about methods of construction and designs that would avoid this problem at their site.

With all these perspectives and experiences, the teams reassembled and over the following week put together site maps and models which took into account all the variables: legal, aesthetic and practical.

A presentation in the gym rounded off the project. We got a wide variety of responses to the original challenge to design an acceptable swimming hole.

We made one of the ongoing threads in this project a steady reminder to the pupils that they had involved themselves in real-life, real-time experiences that could help shape a swimming hole that they and their families used.

Opportunities like this come rarely and the satisfaction in seeing the project realized would be real, indeed.

LET'S START NOW

To the Editor:

I am a seventh grader at Telstar Middle School. For my Community Service Project, I am trying to help stimulate interest for building a town indoor pool and community center in the Bethel area. It is important for kids and grownups. Let's face it, it will happen sometime so why not start planning now.

I would like to know who is interested and what people can contribute, such as money, time or goods. Please contact me by letter in care of the Seventh Grade Team at Telstar.

WALK AMERICA THANKS

To the Editor:

For the fifth consecutive year, the people of the Bethel area showed tremendous support of the March of Dimes fight against birth defects. Through their generosity, we raised approximately $9,000 toward the statewide goal of one-half million dollars. It would not happen without the numerous volunteers and participants who give their time and money to make our walk a success. From the committee and all the babies everyone's efforts will help, thanks for being a hero.

steel bridge to span an existing drainage ditch near the detention pond. But two weeks ago, the plan was altered to incorporate a covered bridge instead. "If we're putting a bridge in and spending the money, why not put a roof on it," said CEO Don Murphy, who proposed the change.

The covered bridge will cost the same as a steel one — $30,000. It will be larger than the one at BIG, with a width of 12 feet, a height of seven feet and a span of about 50 feet, making it a roughly 50 percent replica of the Artists' Bridge. The traditional design, known as "Paddleford Truss," was used across New England beginning around the 1850s.

The timbers will be of hemlock, the roof cedar shingles. The bridge will have rough pine siding and spruce decking.

It will be built by Stress-Skin Structures, a company owned by Bill Dunton, who also owns BIG. The plan is currently under review by engineers from the Maine Department of Transportation.

Preliminary work on the overall Pathway Project is now underway. The general contractor is Construction Divers Inc. of Scarborough. The company also built the Hanover boat ramp and a pathway in Yarmouth.

Work is scheduled to be completed at the end of July.

Study: Maine lags in promoting itself to cyclists

Associated Press

Bicyclist tourists could be a boon to Maine's tourism revenue if the state invested in more trails and services, according to a new study.

The study, financed by the Department of Transportation, said bicycle tourists spent $36.3 million in Maine last year.

But if businesses, communities and the state work together to improve and market Maine's bike-ways, that figure can be expected to grow by millions of dollars in the next decade, said Bruce Hyman of Wilbur Smith Associates, the Portland firm that performed the study.

"Outstanding scenery is our number one asset; we need to market it, market it, market it," Hyman said. "A lot of places are doing a better job than Maine in getting information out."

The study showed that bicycle tourists are spending most of their money in the southern part of the state, where trails are more common and are within a day's drive of metropolitan areas like Boston and New York, Hyman said.

However, research indicates that wealthy cyclists are willing to drive several hundred miles for multi-day

'Research indicates wealthy cyclists are willing to drive several hundred miles for multi-day bicycle trips through the countryside.'

bicycle trips through the countryside, he said.

Bicycle paths in Wisconsin are drawing more than 50 percent of their cyclists from the Chicago area, he added.

The key to attracting bicycle tourists is to create safe, well-maintained trails through scenic areas.

Maine lacks safe, consistent bicycle lanes, he said, and funds for pedestrian and bicycle projects are rare.

"We are at a disadvantage to other states, and the people who hold the purse strings need to know that," said John Balicki, who organized a recent conference on bicycle tourism in Maine.

Most of the 1.5 million bicycle tourists that travel to Maine are from New England or the mid-Atlantic states. They range in age from about 30 with young children to 60. They tend to prefer small, rural campgrounds and bed-and-breakfasts to large motels and resorts, the study said.

Hymen said it will take 10 to 15 years to build up Maine as a destination for bicycle tourism.

Meanwhile, the Department of Transportation is promoting 21 bicycle tours between Cape Elizabeth and Presque Isle, including two in the Bethel area. (Copies of the map are available at local bike shops, or see: www.state.me.us/mdot/opt/biketour/s/biketours.htm)

The study estimated that these tours alone could attract 53,000 annual users by 2005.

It also said that a proposed "linear park" of off-road bicycle and pedestrian trails between Calais and Key West, Fla. could draw more than 200,000 additional cyclists every year.

Watershed committee seeks grant

NEWRY—The Sunday River Watershed Committee plans to submit an application for a federal grant in the amount of $172,800. If approved, the funds would be used over a three-year period to fix erosion problems in the watershed, focusing on the Sunday River Road, and roads in the Barker Brook and Merrill Brook sub-watersheds. The application process also seeks a $50,000 match from Sunday River Ski Resort, most of which would be in-kind contributions in the form of labor. Volunteer labor estimated at $14,300, used in a survey of the lower Sunday River watershed last year, might also be used as a match, as well as $9,650 appropriated from the town of Newry this year. If the grant is approved, it would be available in about a year. Funds could also be used to continue the watershed survey in the upper part of the Sunday River Valley.

OCRSWC in Downeast article

GREENWOOD—The Oxford County Regional Solid Waste Corporation is one of several municipal and county waste disposal organizations featured in a March Down East magazine article titled "Pay as You Throw." The article describes efforts to increase recycling in Maine towns. Marie Bartlett, educational director for OCRSWC, said the pay-per-bag approach may be the next step needed to boost county recycling past its current 37 percent rate. OCRSWC serves areas from the higher populations of Norway and South Paris to the 20 residents in Lincoln Plantation, Bartlett said. In that hamlet, she said, a bear cub once climbed into a recycling container and went for a long ride on the truck that picked up the container before he was discovered.

Woodsmen's competitions planned

DIXFIELD—Ninety students representing six area vocational schools will compete in the 25th annual Maine High School Woodsmen's Competition May 17 and 18 in Dixfield. The event will take place at the Mountain View Campground on Route 142. Events will include pulp throw for accuracy, pulp throw for distance, ax throw, log roll, dot split, two-person cross cut, chainsaw cookie cut, skidder competition. Schools participating will be the Region 9 School of Applied Technology, Oxford Hills Technical, Foster Allied Technology Center, Foxcroft Academy, Region 3 Northern Penobscot Technical and Southern Aroostook. The public is invited to watch the competition, which begins Thursday at 9:30 a.m. and Friday at 8:15 a.m.

Changes at Fryeburg Fair

FRYEBURG—Visitors to this fall's Fryeburg Fair will find getting around the grounds a little easier. Trustees recently approved $40,000 for blacktop, as part of an overall $230,000 capital improvement program. Walkways will be widened as much as possible to accommodate strollers, wheel chairs and other visitors. The costliest project approved was a $90,000 expansion of the main office. Trustees also voted to raise ticket prices and parking fees. Tickets will go from $4 to $6 during the week and from $5 to $8 on Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Parking will increase from $2 to $3 per vehicle. The prices had remained the same since 1987.

College van use reviewed

CONCORD, N.H.—Some New Hampshire colleges are reviewing the use of 15-passenger vans to carry school athletes amid safety concerns raised by the federal government. Others said the large vans are the only way they can afford to get their teams to competitions. The government issued a safety warning this month following a series of crashes involving college athletes. Federal laws prohibit the vans from being sold or leased to carry school children in grades K to 12.

Fire danger high

VEAZIE—A string of wildfires along the Springfield Terminal Railroad right of way burned more than 40 acres of brush and grass Saturday before firefighters brought the flames under control. Elsewhere around the state, strong winds fanned wildfires in Raymond, Litchfield, Deer Isle, Winn and Eastport. Crews from the Maine Forest Service and local fire departments battled the Vezie fires, which spread to within 100 yards of a natural gas-fired power plant. Two Forest Service helicopters dropped water on the flames. The cause of the fires remained under investigation, but officials said they may have started as a result of sparks from a faulty brake on a railroad car. Jim Downie of the Maine Forest Service said the number of wildfires since early this month is expected to reach 100 by the end of the weekend. "Lack of rainfall, coupled with all the dead debris left from winter, have made for very high fire danger in many sections of Maine. We strongly caution all property owners to refrain from open debris burning on these windy days," Downie said. Jim Yong, Bethel fire chief, said the fire danger in the Bethel area is high, but not extreme. The situation will worsen, he said, if it does not rain within a week.

Wildlife park opens

GRAY—The Maine Wildlife Park was scheduled to open Sunday — two weeks later than the original scheduled opening date. Lingerin snow postponed the opening. The park will now be open through Nov. 11, from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily. Call 287-8006 for more information or 657-4977 to listen to a recorded message with program information.

Syrup production down

NEW HAMPSHIRE—The winter's heavy snows are being blamed for a significant drop in maple syrup production this season in New Hampshire. Production is off by a half, according to the N.H. Maple Producers Association. Maine and Vermont producers report similar numbers. Sap flow is stimulated as the sun warms the base of sugar maples. But the lingering snow this year covered the tree bases during the usual sap season. It also made it difficult for producers to get to the trees and sap lines.

Gardeners needed for food program

PARIS—Gardeners can help churches and food banks feed hungry people in Maine this summer by planting an extra row of vegetables or dedicating their garden surplus to the hungry. Plant A Row for the Hungry is a nationwide campaign sponsored by the Garden Writers Association of America. It encourages gardeners to plant an extra row of vegetables or fruit and donate the produce to food banks, church dining rooms and soup kitchens. In five years, more than one million pounds of product have been donated across the country. Last year, Maine farmers and gardeners donated more than 25 tons. For more information call the Cooperative Extension office at (800) 287-1482.

Summer smog alerts planned

BOSTON—In order to help New England residents prepare for poor air quality this summer, the Environmental Protection Agency and the New England states will provide smog forecasts and real-time animations of ozone beginning May 1. They will be available at www.epa.gov/region01/ore. Ground level ozone, the main ingredient of smog, is formed when volatile organic compounds and oxides of nitrogen interact in the presence of sunlight. It is considered unhealthy when average concentrations exceed 0.08 parts per million over an eight-hour period. When concentrations are predicted to exceed the standard, an "Ozone Action Day" will be announced. Citizens will be asked to take the following actions: use public transportation, bike or walk whenever possible; if driving is necessary, car pool and combine trips; go to the gas station at night to cut down on gas vapors getting into the air during daylight hours, when the sun can cook the vapors; and form ozone; use less electricity; set air conditioning to a higher temperature setting; turn out lights and computer screens when not in use; and avoid using gas-powered engines, such as lawn mowers, chain saws and leaf blowers on unhealthy air days.

MAYDAY—Children at the Bethel Preschool welcomed the month of May Tuesday with a Maypole celebration. The tree in front of the United Methodist Church served as the "pole." Pictured are (from left) teacher Pat Blakesley, Mattie Seamans, Aislinn Lufkin Forbes and Malcolm Seamans. The preschool, said Blakesley, will be in the market for a new teacher for next year, because she will pursue other plans.

From the Bethel Police Log:

Math book doesn't survive party

At 4 p.m. on April 27 a caller reported signs of fires and beer cans at a site on the North Road, and requested police check the area. Also found was a burned algebra book.

At 10:10 p.m. Chad A. Bean, 19, of Bethel was issued a summons for criminal threatening after an altercation with other subjects on Church Street.

At 11:14 p.m. police assisted the Fire Department at the scene of a car fire at a Songo Pond Road residence.

Sunday, April 29

At 11:50 p.m. a subject was observed operating an unregistered scooter (moped) near the Grover Hill Road. The subject, a juvenile, was issued summonses for operating without a license and operating an unregistered motor vehicle.

Tuesday, May 1

At 1 p.m. a juvenile at Telstar High School was charged with illegal transportation of alcohol by a minor. A second juvenile was charged with illegal possession of alcohol by a minor.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log. It lists all cases of adults being arrested or issued a criminal summon, but does not include all reports of other police activity. To reach the Bethel Police Department, call 911 in emergency situations, 824-3437 in non-emergencies.

library and resource room, a faculty resource room, two conference/seminar rooms, a greenhouse, and a lecture auditorium seating 60 people. The main entrance lobby is two stories high.

Jim Reuter of Smith/Reuter Architects, designers of the building, said, "The laboratory/classroom portion of the building is a departure from the typical school double-loaded corridor arrangement, with an unusual arrangement of spaces that includes student/faculty gathering spaces."

The building will face west, toward a new quadrangle bounded by Hanscom Hall, the infirmary, the Wight House and McLaughlin. The target date for completion is Sept. 1, 2002.

Construction of the McLaughlin Science Center was made possible by a $2 million challenge grant offered by Glen and Ellen McLaughlin of Saratoga, Calif., parents of Gould alumnus Glen W. McLaughlin, a 1988 graduate.

The details of the grant required Gould to raise $2 million in gifts from trustees, alumni/ae, parents, and foundations, a feat the school accomplished within 11 months of the announcement.

Headmaster Bill Clough said the trustees first considered renovating the science classrooms in Hanscom Hall, the main academic building, about two years ago. A new building was then discussed, but rejected as too expensive.

It was at that point Glen McLaughlin became involved, Clough said, offering $2 million if the school community could match it. McLaughlin later added $300,000 to his gift to ensure the construction of a lecture hall.

Clough said a building committee visited other schools before settling on a design for the building.

the space, received a license, and hired staff to run the daycare. Now parents can ski knowing their children are in a safe and supervised environment.

The resort's tubing park reopened, and was very successful, as well, they said.

In March, the resort held a party to celebrate the mountain's 40th anniversary.

The season ended with a big bang provided by the April 1 snowstorm.

"It was a perfect season for a ski resort," Burns said, "so we had few complaints."

But it wasn't just snow that made it a great season, it was the staff. "The personnel we hired worked out very well."

One of the more controversial decisions Burns made was to limit days of operation to Thursday through Sunday during regular weeks. He said there were not enough skier visits to justify opening on Monday through Thursday, except during school vacation weeks.

He said the decision worked out well, particularly for the staff. "Our employees still got the necessary hours for full-time winter employment," he said, "but the four-day work week kept people fresh and rested. They didn't get burned out."

The kitchen and bar were run in-house, and Burns said they were very successful. "Considering the amount of skier visits, we had few complaints, and five times the compliments," he said.

Financially, the mountain is on its way to being self-sufficient," Burns said.

Plans for next winter

Part of the Burnses' plan to accomplish that self-sufficiency includes changes for next winter.

"The primary change will be re-establishing snowmaking under the Westside chair," Burns said.

They also plan to introduce a cross-country ski loop, with the aid of Dick Taylor.

Mount Abram's telemark terrain will receive new attention with one, or perhaps two, telemark festivals. Burns also plans to offer telemark rentals.

He said the rental and retail shop will be run in-house next year. "We have the ability to streamline the whole ticket-purchase-and-rental process," he said. "We want to expand what we offer and upgrade the equipment."

Racing will take on a new focus, as well. Currently, Burns is searching for a full-time racing director. "Our emphasis will be on a youth and adult racing program, with high and elementary school programs."

Burns said he has been talking with several area school systems about the program. He hopes to have extended hours for race training on Thursday and Friday nights, possibly on Saturday. He said the whole mountain will be open on those evenings.

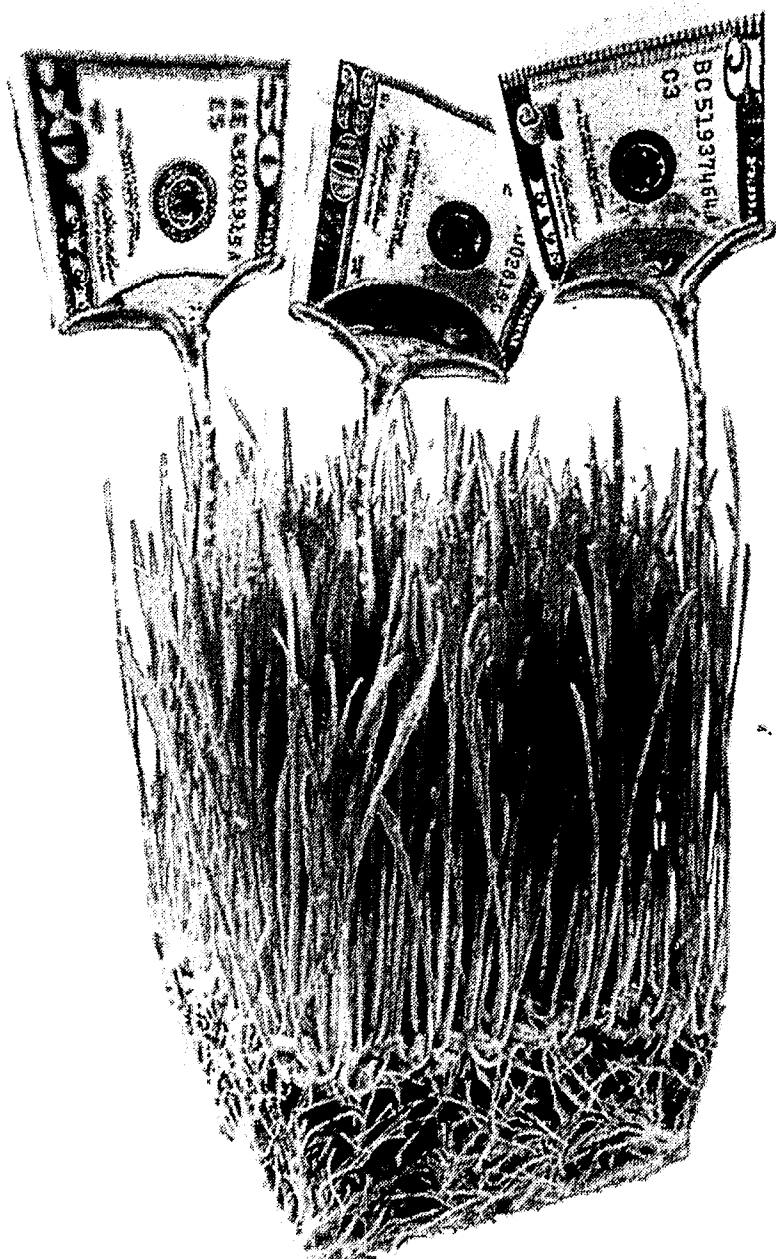

Part of the racing program will include dual racing, where racers compete side by side.

times be a bit trying, you know almost all your neighbors, you have very little privacy, you or the person you are angry with are related to almost everyone else in town; you all know what I'm trying to say here, you have all gone through it some time or other. To me, it takes courage and a certain sense of dignity to apologize, and I am glad to be able to use this space to do just that. The following are the words of the person that wrote them — I'm only copying them for her. "I would like to apologize to any of the people living in the Gardner Valley Road area that were affected by a disturbance caused by barking dogs. I was totally unaware that there was a problem. If I had known, I would have corrected it immediately before it became such an inconvenience to all concerned. Please accept my apology, I am very sorry," Sandy Standeven.

Some important dates for all concerned with the Andover Elementary School: May 5, Family Dance from 6 to 8:30 p.m.; Softball practice on May 7 and 8 from 3 to 4:30 p.m., for elections of the following officers: president, vice president, secretary and treasurer — all positions not filled will remain vacant. On May 11, the fifth and sixth grades leave for Boston, aka, Heaven. Lucky kids, why didn't they do that when I was in the fifth or sixth grade? I really felt cheated. To whom do I protest? Oh well, I know these kids will have a really good time down there; say hello to Boston for me will you everybody?

The Great Pumpkin Growing Contest is returning. Each student will start a Dill's Atlantic Giant Pumpkin plant from a seed. Next fall, the pumpkins will be judged and the biggest will win a prize and be invited to the Halloween Dance. Get ready, Andover, some of this type of pumpkin grows very large — the world's record is over 1,000 pounds. There will be enough pie for the whole town. Can I have a seed?

The word of the week is ambivalence. Look it up. See ya.

Often I think of the wild creatures at this time of year. How have they come through the cold winter? The deer would be "yarded-up" somewhere in the lonelier regions of the woods, each making his own "yard" and keeping the snow down by moving around. The great moose is somewhere in their hiding places. It's nearing their time to be about. It is not heat but light that is returning to the world. So glittering is the morning air, so cloudless the sky that the sun rolls up over the woods like a sudden radiant gold ball. It is fun to get out again among the new revealed secrets kept hidden for many months.

Now, waiting for us, May will come.

Mr. and Mrs. Artland Rogers came to see me this week. He was one of my boys during my school days so we went back in time as we visited.

It was nice to see Robert and Jeri Holt and Ann also. They did some work for me.

I was happy to get out of doors for a change of scenery. The ice in the pond was breaking up and moving toward the dam. I am glad to see the pond open again.

Milton and Eleanor Inman visited me. It is so nice to have them home again.

HAPPY RETIREMENT
Jerry Greenwell, rural mail carrier in Newry, retired last week after eight years of carrying the mail in the Bethel area. "I'll miss the summertime deliveries, but I won't miss the winter at all," said Greenwell. He will miss the postal customers. "What makes the Post Office fun is the people on the route," he said. What does he plan to do now? "Anything I want," said Greenwell, who lives in Bethel. "When anyone drives out to West Bethel this summer, blow the horn. I'll wave from the pool." His fellow workers threw a celebration for him Friday at the Newry Post Office. Pictured are (from left) Jody Michaels (Greenwell's replacement), postmistress Crystal Lake, Greenwell, rural carrier Barry Swasey and clerk Leslie Aron.

South Woodstock

by Andrea Wing
Florence Watson, who was a South Woodstock resident for many years, is in CMHC hospital after having a hip replacement. She seems to be coming along okay and is having therapy for a while to help her along. She should be home soon. I wish her a speedy recovery.

One afternoon this past week I visited with my sister-in-law, Tommy Poland, and her daughter, Sherry. We had a good visit together.

Donnie and Kaye Mason have moved to a home on Curtis Hill Road.

I was sorry to read in the paper that Wayne Lago had died recently. Mr. Lago was the principal at Woodstock High School during most of my high school years. I had mentioned him to my husband a few days earlier wondering where he was now.

It's amazing how fast the snow is finally going. It's disappearing almost like magic. My mother used to say in the spring, "The snow has gone, the grass has ris, I wonder where the birdies is." I still think of it several times in the spring of the year.

Eda Waterhouse will be having a sale (for charity) at the Union Church here in South Woodstock in June. If you have articles you'd like to donate, she'd appreciate it. I'll put the specific dates in a little closer to the time.

Happy birthday to those celebrating in May: Jerry Verrill, Marguerite Verrill, Kimberley Hadley, Lonnie Hadley, Maurice Morgan, Elaine Wilday, Jeff Littlehale, Gina Poland, Stacy Mason, Pam Mason, Gloria Flemming, Betty Estabrook, Debbie Poland, Pamela Smith, Evelyn Dunn, Chea Davis, Tommy Poland, Barbara Cash, Earl Hart, Donna Koshiba and Shaun Baker. Also a happy birthday to my daughter, Kellie Record and daughter, Sarah Hart. Happy birthday to Logan Bru who will be three years old.

The Historical Society will hold an open house May 12 from 12 to 4 p.m. to start selling the newly published copies of Ruby Emery's "Hamlin's Gore." The books are priced at $20 a copy. In the evening a special program will be presented on Mrs. Emery's work. Ruby Emery was long head of the Society's research committee and she willed her original manuscripts to the Society. They are housed in a fireproof file cabinet at the museum. Be sure to attend the open house.

On March 31, Maurice and Cecile Lescault and Annie Westleigh went to the craft show at the Eastern States Expo. They went on Alpine Tours. They had a ball on the bus, as they had a Pirates' bus with the tables between some seats so they could eat, have coffee and play cards if they wanted to. The show was beautiful and had a lot of crafts. They each bought a couple crafts. They stopped at the Cracker Barrel restaurant on the way home. It was a long ride so they didn't get to Auburn until 9:45 p.m. and then the drive home. Ho hum.

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

Sharon Bouchard's column is published here by special arrangement with the Advertising Department of this newspaper.

Do any of you remember the movie The Graduate with Dustin Hoffman? If you do, you probably remember a scene where the Hoffman character's parents were having a graduation party and everyone had some kind of advice for the graduate. One man told him his future was held in just one word "plastics"! That movie came out around 1969 and we all laughed at that. After all, plastics had been around for quite a while and were considered just a cheap material for dishware and novelty items.

Well, that was then and this is now and we are living in a plastic world and at the rate that we are going with our plastic attitudes someday the world may actually be covered with a giant Tupperware "Earth Crisper."

Finding things made of metal or rubber is becoming harder and harder. Paper is on its way to becoming obsolete. Just the other day I bought a bag of all-natural kitty litter that up until recently came packaged in an all-natural paper bag; now it's packaged in a plastic bag. It seems to me like a violation of nature to package an all-natural product in an unnatural material.

This winter (actually just a few weeks ago) the front bumper of my car and a snow banking had a slight disagreement; the snow banking won. In the days of metal bumpers I would have just used a toilet plunger and pulled the dent right out. But, guess what? The bumper is made of fiberglass, a cousin to plastic, and the whole bumper has to be replaced.

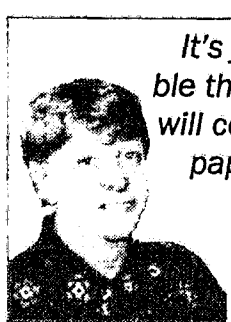

And do you remember when Tinker Toys and Lincoln Logs were made of wood? They aren't anymore; they're made of plastic. They do still make Deluxe Sets of wood, but you have to pay dearly for them. Same situation with Tonka trucks. When my son was a youngster all Tonka products were made of metal, now if you want the metal version instead of plastic it will cost you your kids college education.

Even paper money may some day go the way of the dodo bird. Plastic credit and debit cards can be used for just about everything. You can purchase groceries, pay for a doctor's visit and even buy postage with credit cards.

It's just possible that the day will come when paper money will never exchange hands. Instead of a paycheck, we'll get vouchers telling us how much has been deposited in our accounts. Everyone will have a plastic credit/debit card that will be accepted for everything and every charge will be taken out of our accounts. That may sound far-fetched, but at one time the idea of a material called plastic sounded pretty far fetched too.

Alexander Parkes didn't think it was too far-fetched back in 1850 when he discovered that mixing a chemical called nitrocellulose with camphor created a hard but flexible transparent material. He called it Parkesine and thought it was the greatest stuff on earth. He just couldn't figure out how to use it.

It's just possible that the day will come when paper money will never exchange hands.

Well, perish the thought that the men of the era would have to give up their game of billiards because they had no balls. Hyatt, came to the rescue by compressing the Parkesine, which he renamed Celluloid and made the highly sought billiard balls.

Celluloid then found its way from the billiard parlors to the inside of the Kodak camera in the form of film. From film it became "Bakelite" developed by a clever fellow by the name of Leo Hendrik Baekeland who has been dubbed the "father of plastic." Bakelite became plastic handles on frying pans and steam irons as well as electrical plugs.

The progression of plastic was pretty rapid as it still is. Cellophane came out in 1912 and it was just as hard to find the end of the roll then as it is now. Acetate was formed into soap dishes and bathroom tumblers in 1927 closely followed by vinyl in 1928. I wonder if vinyl smelled the same way then that it does now; I kind of like that smell.

Acrylics saw the light of day in 1936 in novelty items and the ever-popular Mel Mac was invented in 1937, and contrary to what sales clerks try to tell you, it does break. "Go ahead and drop this dinner plate on the floor," a sales clerk in a department store once said to me. So I did drop it on the floor, with maybe a little more force than the clerk meant, and the dinner plate broke into several pieces much to both our surprise. It's still pretty durable stuff though.

Styrene and Formica both came about in 1938 and 1940 brought us polyester and nylon; marvelous materials.

All of these materials are a form of plastic and are used in just about everything you can think of. But the most popular plastic of all is, you guessed it, Tupperware. Earl S. Tupper created his original line of plastic tumblers and containers in 1948, the same year that I was born. I have no doubt in my mind that somewhere out there in the vast land of Tupperware there is a refrigerator bowl the same age as me, but probably in much better shape.

Old Earl died in 1983 and rumor has it that he was buried in a Tupperware casket. Why not? Once you burp the lid it becomes airtight. Earl is probably fresh as a daisy while the rest of us are wilting.

Anyway, my original point was, before I went into plastic history, that every thing around us these days is plastic. Just look around you wherever you're sitting right now and see how many plastic items there are. And that's just the plastic that you can identify. There are a lot of other items that you can't be sure about like wood and glass and metal. You think they're what they're supposed to be, but they're not, they're actually plastic. Even a good percentage of your car's trim and parts of its body is made out of plastic.

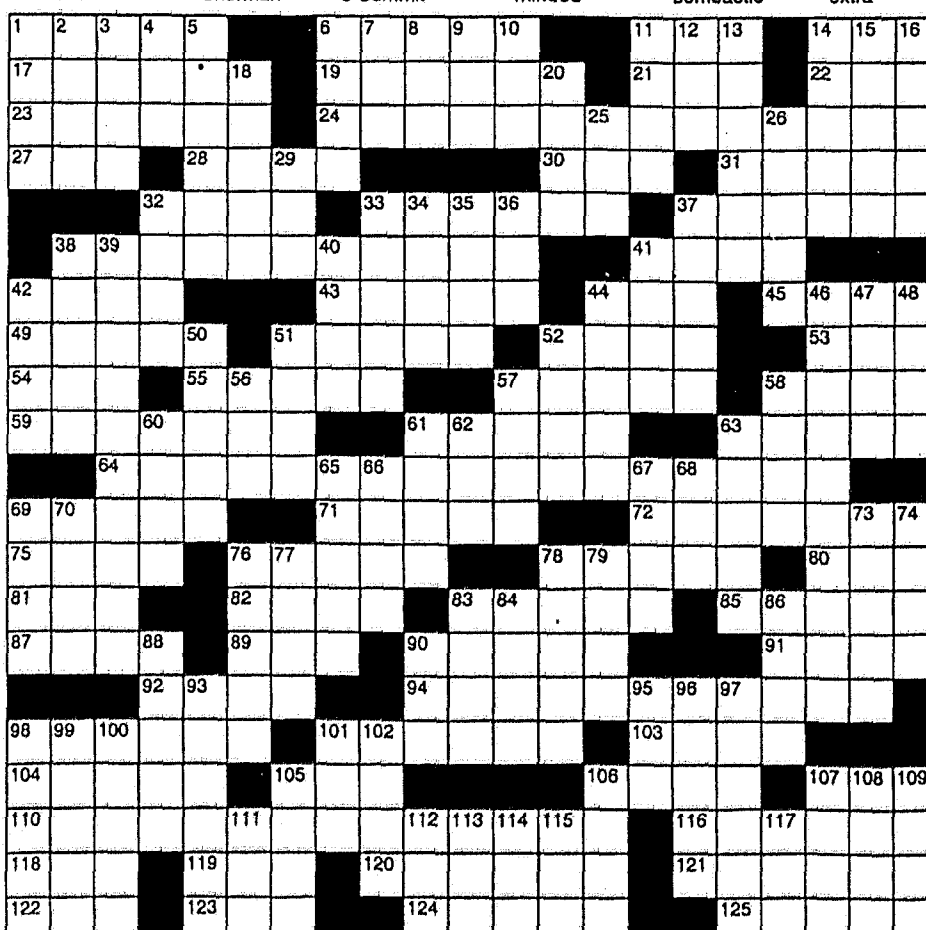

Is all this plastic material surrounding us a good thing? Probably not. The pro-plastic people say that it is great stuff; it lasts a long time and it is lighter and cheaper than other materials. That may be true, but I think the only place plastic really lasts a long time is in the landfills. It may be lighter, but so what, I don't plan to lug my car around. As for cheaper, nothing is cheaper anymore.

Environmentalists on the other hand, are saying that all this plastic is creating a problem. It doesn't break down for centuries and if you burn it, it causes ozone problems.

The way I see it these are issues worth pondering and that's what I'm doing with this column that I'm writing on my plastic keyboard attached to my plastic encased computer operated with my plastic mouse that I bought with my plastic credit card. While I write I am drinking coffee brewed in a plastic encased coffeemaker from a plastic cup and eating toast made in a plastic toaster which sits on my plastic laminated kitchen counter. Plastic.....who needs it?

be made for Memorial.
Franklin Grange 124 will meet on Monday, May 7, with a program on Mother's Day.
The former Frozen Logger is now opened as Dos Burros. Welcome to the new owners.
The Historical Society helps preserve our heritage. It helps people with research and genealogy, and also publishes material on local history. They especially thank Kathleen Bean and Mary Billings for helping with research and getting articles and photos on local history in the Lewiston Sun. We thank the research committee for monthly reports, a highlight of our meetings, and of course, Elsie Bon-Bonney for working on "Hamlin's Gore."

97), Mrs. Lena Dean and Mrs. Clara Wilson. Their special day was April 26. They received flowers, a birthday cake and many cards. We at West Paris Grange all send hearty birthday greetings to these three fine ladies.
Our condolences go out to Mrs. Audrey Miller and her family on the loss of her husband, Howard. He, too, was a member of West Paris Grange. We attended in a body last Saturday night at I.W. Andrews Funeral Home in South Woodstock to do a Grange Memorial tribute for Howard.
See you all next week.

West Paris

by Bertha DeHias
Greetings folks. The peepers are peeping, purple myrtle is creeping, goldfinches are singing and spring, it is springing. Had a flock of about two-dozen goldfinches here at the feeder this a.m. — glorious color and song both. Have seen three separate flocks of Canada geese so far this spring. Hope we have some good spring weather now. Plan to rototill Saturday and put in the peas, spinach and lettuce.

Guess I'll have to put up "rabbit" fencing as well as electric fencing, as there seems to be an over abundance of woodchucks and deer this spring. The deer did an awful lot of destruction to small orchards and shrubs, probably due to the deep snow and difficulty in getting around.

Be very careful about outdoor fires this spring. It is terribly dry everywhere now that the snow is gone and we have not yet had our spring rains.

Martin Lescault, son of Maurice and Cecile Lescault of Pioneer Street, West Paris, was the tenor soloist in a concert at the Cathedral in Portland on April 1. It was a beautiful concert. Attending from this area were Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Lescault, Annie Crockett, Vi Clukey and Jeanine Wing. After the concert, they went to the Old Country Buffet for dinner. All had a good time.

Bob and Kathy Bessette, Emily, Mark and Timothy of Fairfax, Vt., spent the past weekend with Kathy's parents, Vance and Connie Bacon.

Sid and Cynthia Scott and grandchildren, Zach and Nicole, were at Stoney Brook in Stratton for the weekend. They had to shovel some to get in to their camp.

Muriel Bunker of Barrington, N.H., visited her mother, Georgia Thayer, and sister, Beverly and Vince Stevens, last weekend.

Goodwill Fellowship group met on Monday evening at the Universalist Church Goodwill Hall for a potluck supper and meeting, with nine present. Plans were made for the annual May Sale, which will take place on May 19, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Rhubarb pies will be featured (if the rhubarb will be ready) as well as other kinds of pies. There will also be sandwiches, white elephants, crafts and rummage. On May 22, we will be having our "Out to Eat" meeting.

Joe and Peg Perham are great grandparents. Their granddaughter, Jara Gyzinsky, had a baby girl on April 20 in Rio Dell, Calif. Her name is Nadja Bren.

Rebecca Stevens has returned home after spending the winter in Florida.

This is "no TV week" at the Agnes Gray School, with many after-school activities. Last night there was a bike rodeo, and it seemed so good, as we passed by, to see so many children and parents joining together at a school function. The basketball court was also very busy with activity. On Friday, they will be treated to cake and ice cream.

The Universalist Church Board meeting was held Wednesday evening with Marta Clements. On May 6, 5:30 p.m., there will be a potluck supper at Goodwill Hall. The next board meeting will be May 17 at Beverly Stevens' home at 7 p.m.

The Craft Group met on Thursday with June Demarest. Present were: Beverly Stevens, Edith Morey, Cynthia Lamb, Peg Perham and Miriam Inman. The Rev. Joy Gasta joined us for tea. Next week we will meet with Peg Perham.

East Stoneham

by Eleanor Nelson
Hi readers. Francis Grant had a nice surprise one day last week. Beverly Irish from Westbrook called on her. Beverly used to live with the Handys here in Stoneham over 50 years ago. She was 13 at that time. An awful lot has changed in East Stoneham since then. She used to go to the card parties and to the movies with Frances and me. I hope she comes back for another visit.

On Wednesday, April 26, 10 members of the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, Hannah F. Richardson Tent 19 met at the home of Eleanor Smith at Waterford Acres. In Waterford, Beth Jones and Heidi Shugars were installed as color bearers at that time. Treasurer and secretary's reports were read and accepted. It was voted to put the flags out on veterans' and members' graves on May 12.

Discussion was made about entering a float in the Maine State Parade in Lewiston on May 5 of this year.

An appropriate reading was done by Gail Butterfield about famous people of the Civil War times. Joyce Gouin won the mystery prize. Nice refreshments were served after the meeting. Next meeting will be held at the K of P Hall in Stoneham when we will have the Memorial services for deceased members of the Daughters of Union Veterans Tent 19 on May 23.

Did you know that we have a licensed child care in Stoneham now? Amber Dupont has opened her home as "Colorbox Child Care" and welcomes children ages six weeks to 12 years and is open from 7 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. Summertime care will be available. One can reach her at 928-2732.

Deanna Merchant, 8-year-old God-daughter of Marilyn and Dick Jones, and her mom, Dayle, have been spending the past week with Deanna's older sister, Heather, in Japan. Heather teaches school over there.

Dick and Marilyn Jones spent the weekend of April 28 with Jim and Cathy Farley in Bernard.

The Friendly Senior Citizens meeting and lunch will be North Waterford Church vestry on May 2 at 11:30 a.m.

Oxford Pomona Grange 2

After a three-month vacation, Oxford Pomona met on April 3 at Franklin Grange 124 in Bryant Pond. Special guests for the evening were Harold and Mildred Parsons, assistant steward and lady assistant steward of the Maine State Grange. Among those present were two other members of Androscoggin Pomona and one from Northern New Hampshire Pomona.

As the March meeting, scheduled as Music Night, had to be postponed due to the weather, that theme was combined with April's. Patriotic Night and there were many patriotic songs sung during the lecturer's program. Mystery march winners were Stan Howe, Connie Tutlis, David Murphy, Gloria Abbott and Lucy Robbins.

Since the December meeting, three members have been called to "the great Grange above" and resolutions of respect were read for John Grover and sisters, Althea Tucker and Priscilla Jasud. They were faithful members who will be greatly missed.

Lecturer Stan Howe reminded all that the next meeting of Oxford Pomona is at South Waterford's Bear Mountain Grange on May 1, with a 6:30 p.m. potluck supper prior to the meeting.

Soon after that, Oxford Pomona will travel to Anson Grange in North Anson on May 12 for a 10:30 a.m. Somerset Pomona meeting where Oxford Pomona will fill the offices and furnish the program. The hosts will serve a noon meal. That will be reversed on June 2 when the meeting will be at Mount Sugarloaf Grange in Dixfield with the visitors filling the offices and presenting the program. At the South Waterford meeting, arrangements can be made for carpooling to North Anson.

A birthday card was signed for faithful and loved member, Lewis Woodworth, who became 97 years of age. This correspondent has since learned that he has become a resident of Ledgeview Living Center in West Paris, Room 208. He surely would like to receive cards and visits there.

Mason McMillin Round Robin Bridge Club

The year-end banquet for the Mason-McMillin Round Robin Bridge Club was held at the Town and Country Motor Inn in Gorham, N.H. on April 22. As we celebrated another year of fun playing bridge, we enjoyed a delicious dinner served at the T&C. Thanks, as usual, go out to Pearl McMillin, who keeps track of all the games and scores, and Ken Ramage, who did a stellar job, once again, in arranging the final banquet. Thanks, also, to the committee for 2000-2001: Dutch and Elaine Dresser, Wendy Penley and Jan Todd.

Highest overall score for this past season, for the second year in a row, was Alan Bradford of Rumford, followed closely by Wende Gray and Frank Gibson Jr., both of Bethel. High for a single game this year also went to Alan. Other high scores were Elaine and Dutch Dresser, Connie Thurston, Barbara Douglass, Mona and Rich Grover and Al Barth. Low scores perhaps ought to be ignored.

The Mason-McMillin Round Robin Bridge Club is always open to new members. Our playing season starts in September and culminates in the banquet held in April. Any interested players wishing to join our ranks should call Jan Todd at 824-3209, or any other committee member for next year: Wendy Penley, Andrea Bennett or Chris Otten. There currently are 17 teams, and by joining the club you would be expected to play each team once. The time commitment is not huge; it usually involves playing bridge twice a month, at the convenience of both teams.

and fellowship.

Two of the guests for the evening were Trooper Steven Green and his partner, Shire, who work out of the Gray State Police barracks. Shire is a very sweet dog of approximately 58 pounds, smaller than one would expect for the type of work she does. Trooper Green described their lengthy training for the work they do and some of the special accomplishments of Shire in the two years they have worked together. She has found lost people and objects and tracked criminals. She obeys her partner's verbal commands but also, even from a distance, responds to his hand gestures. Some of these things were demonstrated when everyone went out to the parking lot. Someone hid their keys and she was able to find them very quickly.

Post member Richard Wakefield, volunteered to act as a criminal. At a signal from her partner, Shire ran across the parking lot and grabbed Richard by his well-padded right arm and could not be shaken loose. Later, at a threatening gesture toward Mr. Green, she again grabbed that right arm and held on.

Back in the hall, attention was turned to another guest, past post and state commander, John Howe. The occasion was a belated observation of his 95th birthday. Unit member Sally Smith, had made a lovely cake. On it was a picture of John relaxing in his easy chair. Everyone wanted to know, "How did she do that?" Using an actual picture, the exact edible duplicate was made at Shaw's Supermarket and Sally applied it to the cake. All enjoyed it with coffee and ice cream before going to the respective post and unit meetings. At the close of the evening, John was given the remaining half of the cake, that with his picture on it, to take home where he shared it the next day with the other apartment residents at Andrews House at Market Square in South Paris where he now lives.

Before adjourning to their respective meetings, the post draped their charter in memory of Everett Cole, who passed away recently. His sister, Nada Sessions, a member of the unit, was able to be present.

In a previous meeting, it was learned that the monthly suppers and dances the unit has held paid off again. The original reason for having them was to earn money to help the post install a generator so that the building could be used as an emergency shelter. It was used in this way for several days during the Ice Storm of 1998. Last month when the heavy, wet snow disrupted the power supply to most of the region, they were able to provide a place for 11 people to sleep and during the day hot meals were served — to 100 people in one day. This time the American Red Cross supplied most of the food.

Recently, the unit donated $100 to the Togus bus fund. This was toward the purchase of a new bus to take residents of the VA Hospital on trips. In other business, a slate of officers was elected for the coming year and they will be installed at the meeting of May 17. Also, delegates have been chosen to attend the State Convention to be held at Lewiston in June.

Samantha Howe of Bryant Pond has been chosen to attend Gifts State at Husson College in June. It was hoped to also send another girl, but she had a prior commitment.

From the

Mahoosuc Arts Council

Four Shadow, the a cappella sensation from Minneapolis, Minn., will be performing on Friday, May 11 in Bethel for the Mahoosuc Arts Council.

With their high-energy performance style, it's no wonder Four Shadow has been called "The vocal equivalent of Stomp." From coast to coast, they have demonstrated beyond a doubt that the most powerful and versatile instrument of all is one that we each possess — the human voice. Four Shadow uses no drum machines, synthesizers, sampling or pre-recorded material. Every sound, be it singing, percussion, guitar riffs or thumping bass, is produced live from the mouths of these young men.

Four Shadow performed for Bethel area elementary, middle, and high school students last year and the audiences went wild. They've been brought back by popular demand for this 7 p.m. show at Telstar Regional High School. Tickets are $5 in advance or $7 at the door and may be purchased at the Big Apple in Bethel or call (207) 824-3575 for ticket reservations.

From the

Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

On the morning of Wednesday, May 9, from 7:30 to 9 a.m., all are invited to attend our monthly breakfast meeting, which will be held at the Sudbury Inn. A $3 continental breakfast will be available and an RSVP is appreciated by Tuesday, May 8, to the Chamber office (824-2282).

Many of you have read about the 12-unit affordable rental project proposed for the Mechanic Street extension in the Bethel Station development. This is your opportunity to hear from the developers, learn about Community Concepts' mission of providing affordable housing rentals and homes in western Maine, ask questions, and voice your opinion. We have been told by these individuals that this is a very important part of the process for them.

Affordable housing is a huge issue, not only in the Bethel area, but in Maine in general. The recent SAD44 Economic Study released by the Chamber indicates, through average income vs. average home price statistics, that we need to focus on this issue if we are to be successful in retaining our existing businesses and attracting new businesses.

We all should be learning about what the opportunities are to provide this housing to our residents and workers. Please plan on attending this breakfast, but be sure to RSVP to the Chamber office so we can give the Sudbury Inn an accurate count. Thanks.

You are also encouraged to put the early evening of May 17 on your calendars for a Business After Hours/Open House at Stone Mountain Mortgage on Main Street, Bethel.

From the

Oxford County Democrats

The Oxford County Democratic Committee will meet on Wednesday, May 9, at 6 p.m. at Telstar Regional High School in Bethel. All Democrats and others interested are invited to attend.

The agenda will include planning for the reorganization of the Democratic Party in Oxford County in preparation for the 2002 election.

Anyone who is unable to attend but who would like to become involved in Democratic Party activities at the county or town level should contact Oxford County Democratic Committee Chair Cathy Newell of Greenwood, 875-2116; Vice-Chairs Joe Derouche of Mexico, 364-4728, or Pam Pinault of Porter, 625-7334.

From the

Oxford County Republicans

Oxford County Republicans will meet Tuesday, May 8, at Wilkins House, Plummer Hill Road, Waterford for a 5:30 p.m. social hour, followed by a 6:30 p.m. lasagna dinner ($6). Guest speaker will be Major General J.K. Tinkham, Maine National Guard Department of Defense, Veterans and Emergency Management at Camp Keys, Augusta. For more information, call Paul Billings at 665-2450.

HE HAS AN EYE FOR DESIGN

Meet Tim Frank, managing editor for design at the Sun Journal. He creates many of the graphics that highlight our stories and has received a number of top awards for his work. This year, the Sun Journal was named one of the "World's Best-Designed" newspapers, thanks in large part to the efforts of Tim Frank. So, the next time you look at the paper and some graphic of his draws your eye, take a closer look. We think — like Tim — it's some of the best.

A WINNING LETTER—TMS sixth-grader Lauren McAllister is one of six finalists out of 400 competitors statewide in a writing contest sponsored by the Maine Humanities Council. Students wrote a fictional letter to an author of their choice, describing how the author's book affected them personally. McAllister chose "Joey Pigza Swallowed the Key," by Jack Gantos. The main character in the book has attention deficit and hyperactivity disorder. The story, said McAllister, helped her better understand a person close to her. She and the other finalists will be recognized at a Portland Sea Dogs game June 3. McAllister is shown here with teacher Tammy Davis.

High School Boys' Varsity Lacrosse

Hyde 14, Gould 3, Apr. 28—Although Gould kept the game close throughout the first half, playing "the best lacrosse of the last several years," according to Coach Will Graham, in the second half, Hyde School ran away with the victory. Rory Dwyer scored two of Gould's three goals, and Dylan Hood picked up the third. Burt Boyer and Angus Graham each notched an assist, and the entire team played well under pressure throughout the game.

Gould 10, Kents Hill 7, Apr. 25—Angus Graham notched five goals and two assists in Gould's win over Kents Hill, and Rory Dwyer scored twice. Aidan Payson, Burt Boyer, and Tristan Fischer each scored one goal in the game. Great defense by Peter Waitkun, Ronan Donovan, and Adam Stout and timely saves by goalie Gus Levy held the Kents Hill Huskies at bay.

High School Boys' J.V. Lacrosse

Hyde 5, Gould 1, Apr. 28—Although they played well throughout the game and outshot the Hyde team, Gould suffered from the lack of outdoor playing opportunities this spring, and lost the game. Ben Morrill, Leo Menard, Matt McCawley, Gabe Ohlson, Sam Oyer, and Kian Merchant-Borna all played well on both offense and defense. Prior to this game, an unofficial JVB team scrimmaged with Hyde, losing a close game. According to Coach Nate Beams, "Highlights were Corey Wood in net for the first time and some excellent play by Erik Lightbody. The game gave some of our younger players a chance to showcase their stuff."

Gould 6, Kents Hill 3, Apr. 25—On the strength of Matt McCawley's three goals and one assist, Gould defeated Kents Hill. Ben Morrill, Gabe Ohlson, Brad Lannon, and Brady Nields all contributed to the win.

High School Boys' J.V. Tennis

Kents Hill 3, Gould 2, Apr. 28—Kents Hill narrowly defeated Gould on Saturday. Ben Bruno and Geoff Gibbons won their singles matches and are undefeated in singles play this year. The newly-formed doubles team of Jesse Eisenberg and Francis Wolff played very well together and lost a very close match.

Gould 5, Hebron 0, Apr. 25—Gould defeated Hebron in every match-up — three singles and two doubles — in last Wednesday's competition. Ben Bruno played, especially effectively, according to Coach Bob Baribeau.

Jason Mowery perfects his form.

Gould pitcher Jason Mowery tosses perfect game

By AMY CHAPMAN

When Gould Academy pitcher Jason Mowery took the mound Saturday for the junior varsity squad's game against Kents Hill, he knew he had his good stuff.

"During my warm-ups, I just felt like I was going to be on," he said. But he didn't imagine he was about to accomplish a feat coach Brad Clarke says he never remembers happening during his own four years of high school baseball, or during his four seasons of coaching at Gould.

In Gould's 11-0 five-inning rout of Kents Hill, Mowery, a 16-year-old Bethel sophomore, tossed a perfect game. Nobody on the Kents Hill team scored. Nobody hit. Nobody reached base on a walk or an error. In fact, nobody even managed to hit the ball in the air; 10 of Mowery's outs came on strikeouts and the remaining five on ground balls.

Asked how far into Saturday's contest he started to think about the possibility of pitching a perfect game, Mowery says, "I really didn't think I would do it, but after lowing a runner to reach base through a walk or an error is greater."

Mowery, the son of Rick and Peggy Mowery, started playing baseball in Michigan at the age of four or five, when he joined his town's tee-ball team. He continued he says he "took a year off from pitching" and played in the outfield and at shortstop instead.

An avid fan of major league baseball, Mowery says he follows all the teams and doesn't play favorites, although he does admit to a certain fondness for the teams he has grown up near, the Detroit Tigers and the Boston Red Sox.

Although proud of his accomplishment, Mowery, who in addition to being photographed and interviewed, was also honored at morning assembly on Monday and presented with the game ball, doesn't quite seem to know what all the fuss is about.

But his teammates are impressed. Only half joking, before resuming their practice after Jason's interview, they requested, "Be sure you write that Jason is our hero!"

No one even hit a ball in the air.

the first two or three innings I started thinking, if I can just keep this up..."

"I've never seen it," said Clarke. "I don't know what the statistics are, but I know it's extremely rare, and probably even more so at the JV level, where the chance of alto play on both school and town baseball teams in Michigan and then Bethel after his family moved to Maine six years ago.

Although he has pitched during most of his seasons as a ballplayer, last year, as a member of Telstar High School's junior varsity team,

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Whereas it has pleased our Heavenly Father to call our beloved brother, Leslie A. Noyes from our midst and in view of the loss in our grange and community;

Therefore be it resolved that it is a just and fitting tribute to the memory of the departed to say that in regretting his passing, we mourn for one who served faithfully, cheerfully and diligently for many years, his grange and his community and will be sorely missed by all;

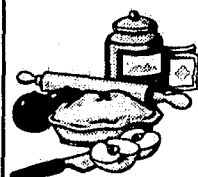

Therefore be it further resolved that we spread copy of these resolutions on our records, have a copy printed in The Bethel Citizen, and a copy sent to his family. Alder River Grange #145 extends its sympathy to the bereaved family.

CARD OF THANKS

You may not know how much
I care, or how lost I'd be if you weren't there.

But Gram these words I say are true, more than anything,
I love you.

You were there for me when we lost dad. Even though you had to be just as sad.

I've cried on your shoulder many times, and I'll always be here if you need mine.

You are a woman like no other.

You are much more than a grandmother.

You are my dearest friend, from now until our days end.

Happy Birthday Gram.

Love Penny
